Initial Response Service

South of Tyne and Wear

providing a service to Sunderland, and South Tyneside

What is the Initial Response Service (IRS)?

The Initial response Service provides 24 hour access to mental health care, advice, support and treatment. By calling Freephone telephone number 0800 6522 867 a member of the team will speak to you and discuss your current mental health needs. If you are Deaf text 07889 036 280.

Who can use this service?

Anyone who lives in South Tyneside and Sunderland who feels they need urgent mental health care or have an enquiry about their routine care can contact the Initial Response Service.

This includes service users, carers, family, friends and supporters. People who have not been previously diagnosed with a mental health problem can self refer to the Initial Response Service. You can also be referred by your GP, social care professional or a voluntary organisation.

If you urgently need specialist advice, even if you have not been diagnosed with a mental health problem, you can still talk to a member of the team who can advise you on 0800 6522 867. If you are Deaf text 07889 036 280.

What kind of help can I expect?

From our conversation with you, a member of the team may arrange for a nurse to see you at home, at a GP practice or another mutually agreed place to allow us to gather further information regarding your current mental health needs and offer you some support or we may be able to offer you information about other services who may be able to help you at this time.

The Initial Response Service is made up of clinical leaders, qualified mental health clinicians and experienced support staff.

The team is supported by Clinicians from specialist areas of care such as

- Children's and young peoples mental health services
- Learning disabilities services
- Older peoples services

The team recognise that some people need to be seen quickly and in these cases we will aim to provide a response within an hour. The nurse who attends will help you to work out what support you need and be able to give you advice and information. If the nurse thinks that you need extra support and help from mental health services they will be able to organise this for you.

What about confidentiality?

Everyone in the Initial Response Service works to very strict rules about confidentiality. Although there may be instances where it may be necessary to share information with other professionals. If you have any concerns about confidentiality please talk to a member of staff.

We will keep a record of your contact with our service and also provide your GP with a summary of your contact with us.

Personal safety

Trust staff carry devices that can monitor and record abusive behaviour. They can alert and receive support from emergency services and the recordings may be used in court proceedings.

Interpreters

If an interpreter is needed, please let us know and we will arrange this for you.

- complete a Your Voice survey, available on wards, reception areas or from staff
- other options for sharing your feedback and experience www.cntw.nhs.uk/yourfeedback

Patient Advice and Liaison Service (PALS)

PALS provide confidential advice and support, helping you to sort out any concerns that you may have about any aspect of your or your loved ones care.

We act independently when handling patient and family concerns, liaising with staff, managers and, where appropriate, relevant organisations, to negotiate prompt solutions.

If necessary, we can also refer patients and families to specific local or national-based support agencies.
